MR. EYLES' STORY.

The Wife of the Ex-President Laid a Rest to Her Story.

At Rome, Italy, June 28.—The morning rain brought a number of persons to pay the last tribute of respect to the late Mrs. Eyles. There were groups of soldiers to be seen everywhere on the streets or on the way to the Eyles home.

A Patient of Her Meetings Seen by Many Friends.

Private Services of a Simple and Expressive Character.

Funeral of Mrs. Eyles.

PREMONT, O., June 28.—The morning rain brought a number of persons to pay the last tribute of respect to the late Mrs. Eyles. There were groups of soldiers to be seen everywhere on the streets or on the way to the Eyles home.

The wife, Mr. and Mrs. Eyles were heavy with the perfume of flowers, tributes from the public and private friends, from comrades in the arms of General Eyles and military and civic organizations.

The profusion of these was bewildering, and many were of the most elaborate nature. Among the great number arriving to-day were a magnificent plow of white sea and maiden hair ferns from President and Mrs. Harrison, a cross of ivy and a base of flowers from the national organization of the W. C. T. U., and an ease of flowers from the Women's Relief Corps, department of Ohio.

The Lucy Eyles mission band sent a piece consisting of fifty-seven white roses, one for each year of the late Mrs. Eyles. The most beautiful piece came from the Women's Home Mission society of the Methodist church, of which Mrs. Eyles was president.

The funeral services were simple and unostentatious, preserving the character of a private rather than a public occasion. They were opened with a reading of the twenty-third psalm by Mrs. Eyles' pastor, Rev. J. M. S. of the Methodist church. This was followed by a hymn, "My Jesus as Thou Wilt," read by Rev. C. S. Barnes, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and singing by the church choir. Prayer was read by a quartet choir. Prayer was read by a quartet choir.

It is said that General Bonanger is growing tired of his position and con templates taking a trip to his country home.

We publish elsewhere an article from the New York Times on "How to Pre vent Consumption," and also giving to the average reader some rather novel ideas regarding the origin of the disease.

Miss Miriam Fisher, the daughter of the late Justice Fisher, who was under the direction of her father, Miss

Fisher, is described by a New York paper as a delicate, blonde, with light golden hair, a lovely face, irresistible eyes and a winning manner. Just imagine the memorizing effect an argument from an attorney of the description is going to have on "two live good men and true."

The Savannah News wants to know when the improvement in the mail service which was promised to begin.

The News is not keeping up with the times. "The improvement in the mail service began on the 1st of last March."

It is not an easy thing for a man to bring order out of chaos in a few weeks, but Mr. Wamman has taken a long time in that direction. The effect of business principles in the post-office department is being felt throughout the country.

The New York World says that the city parties often select for their annual banquets the work of campaign management men whose sole claim to consideration is the possession of great personal fortunes made by juggling rat ional affairs and other corporate interests.

There is nothing persons of course in the World's remarks on Colonel Price may pass by and then interesting read ing, coming as they do from a leading organ of the party over whose central committee he has the honor to preside and whose campaign mismanagement he is to have the pleasure of directing.

Washington people are making an effort to have the great exposition, which is to be held in 1902 in commemoration of the discovery of America, go to the national capital. While the holding of the exposition in Washington would be eminently appropriate as to location, it would encounter very serious inter ference with the success of the uncertain

Washington is not big enough for an air of such magnitude as this proposed to have the exposition of 1902. The fact that Washington is not the accom modations for the crowds which attend the inaugurations is generally known and it is a fact that it can accommodate the many thousands more who would at tend the exposition is a fact which is to be a city where it can be made a success, and the first step in the direc tion of the success must be the clearing of it in a place where visitors will not be set away by the fear of inadequate ac commodations.
